Junior Shotgun

The Detroit Sportsmen's Congress has sought out ways to encourage participation of new junior shooters at our Skeet & Trap ranges. Part of this effort has been spent in engaging potential donors to our programs.

Accordingly, DSC is happy to report that a donation of $800 has been received and has been distributed directly to DSC Skeet & Trap. Specifically, the donation will be used to engage NEW junior shooters. The arrangement between the donor and DSC is that the program will fully pay for either two rounds of Skeet or Trap AND the ammunition to shoot the two rounds per shooter.

Note that this offer is open

Next General
Membership Meeting

to juniors of DSC members AND to any juniors of non-members, ages 10 to 17 years old. This offer extends to juniors who have not yet tried Skeet or Trap but that are interested and want to give it a try. Instruction will be available and is offered any time the Skeet & Trap Ranges are open.

So, please get the word out and take advantage of this opportunity. Remember, the future of our Club is indeed our junior shooters! If you should have any questions, please contact the DSC office at (586) 739-3500 or any representative of the Skeet and Trap Committee.

Education during COVID-19 era

Much has been said about the strains and trials brought upon us by the COVID -19 virus that has affected almost every function at the Detroit Sportsmen's Congress.

I'm glad to say that Education at DSC is still working at our club. CPL classes are still popular and range officer qualification, training and recertification classes remain available for members that need them to complete club work hour requirements. These members know the club wouldn't function without the help they provide.

The primary lead for education at DSC lies in the training provided by the instructors and coaches for the juniors and prospective members. Bringing new people to the club should be the primary focus of any member - but those that donate their time to education and training of members and the public, are the lifeblood of this organization.

Classes in Archery, Rifle, Pistol and Shotgun expose students to an alternate view of the shooting sports not provided by society.

In this current COVID-19 business era, adjustments have to be made to allow classes. Attendance levels, class times, student seating and "hand-out" materials must all be regulated.

Probably the biggest "loss" in this regulation are the limitations on banquets and gatherings usually held at the completion of the course. These events help to convince public attendees that DSC is a great club and serve as a foundation for a "Team Spirit" for members that is hard to establish any other way.

The 2021 Basic Archery class just completed is a great example of that. Despite being regulated to a smaller class size, we had 18 students comprised of 12 members and six guests and included two adults.

All in all, everyone had a great time, not only in class but also with the awards and pictures taken on the last day of class. I hope that more members become instructors and coaches and continue to make DSC the place people come to learn shooting sports.

Touch hole Liners. What the Hay?! I have been shooting muzzleloaders actively for about the last three years. Most of the time, I shoot my percussion gun. Every so often, I bring out the flintlock. When I shoot the flintlock, I have to deal with a slow lock time and somewhat unreliable ignition.

Meanwhile, all the old black powder wags brag that their flintlocks are just as fast as the percussion and nearly as reliable, if not more so. So why was I not seeing it with mine? Many would say that I still have a lot to learn about flintlocks and their ignition. This is true and I learned a lot Sunday.

What I learned is that most flintlocks in competition have touchhole liners. I realized before that a lot of flintlocks have them. I just didn't know why. The touchhole liner is a bushing with a conical interior. It replaces the traditional flash hole channel which is simply a straight hole bored through the barrel perpendicular to the axis of the bore. The conical shape of the touchhole liner brings the main charge much closer to the spark, resulting in quicker ignition. The spark no longer has to travel 0.25" or more to get to the main charge. Faster ignition happens and, in some cases, it is more reliable also. This results in better accuracy in two ways. The concentrate shooter can better as he has confidence that the gun will go off every time and his accuracy will improve because the faster lock time means that follow through becomes less of a factor.

These touch hole liners are great for competition and their use is not unlike the service rifle guys tricking out their AR-15s for competition. However, you would be hard pressed to find an original American-made flintlock rifle with a touch hole liner. A 18 thrare or expensive century gun, here or there, might have had a touch hole liner. But for the most part, it is a 20th-century enhancement to flintlock shooting. So, while we are checking people out for period dress, maybe we should also be checking to see how traditional their flintlock is with that 20th-century feature the touchhole liner. I do know one thing. I no longer feel guilty about shooting percussion. It's certainly as traditional as touch hole liners in flintlocks, if not more.

May brings two special events to the Black Powder range. May 2 is the regular monthly woods walk while May 15 is the 2nd Annual George Wildrick Service Rifle Woods Walk. See the flyers elsewhere in this issue of the P&K or on the "coming events" page on the DSC website.

Rifle

The Annual Easter Egg Shoot was Saturday, April 3. It was well attended with 19 adult and 4 junior competitors. There are awards for best decorated eggs, fastest time and least shots. The winner for the best egg decorations was Joel Grzywacz. You will remember that the course of fire was shooting from the prone position at 6 eggs hanging on strings at the 200yard line. In the junior category, the winner on least time was Max Goerlich at 2:31. Sophie Seidl finished her eggs in the least number of shots - 8. In the adult category, the winner for time was Gary Dawson at 0:42. The winner on least shots was Jim Parsons with a perfect score of 6 shots. That is awesome! With the high price of ammo, I assume Jim didn't want to waste any.

The leagues are starting and I have two reminders. If you paid your league fee for 2020, you do not have to pay the fee for 2021. Also, note that the service rifle league returns to Wednesday evenings and Sporting rifle goes back to Thursday evenings. Hope to see you on the range!

"The Wild Bunch"

By looking at this picture, one might think that these men were bankers or businessmen rather than members of one of the largest and most notorious band of outlaws in the American West known as the Wild Bunch. The Wild Bunch was led by two gunmen better known by their aliases, Butch Cassidy (Robert Leroy Parker) (picture bottom right) and Kid Curry (Harvey Logan) (picture bottom left). They were a loosely knit bunch of thieves and rustlers that preyed upon stagecoaches, small banks and especially railroads from the late 1880s to the first decade of the twentieth century. They flourished in the 1880s and '90s in Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and surrounding states and territories. The Wild Bunch pulled off the longest string of bank and train heists in American history.

In addition to Butch Cassidy and Kid Curry other prominent members of the gang included the Sundance Kid (Harry Longabaugh)-the famous friend of Butch Cassidy, Elzy Lay, "Tall Texan" Kilpatrick, News Carver, Matt Warner, Butch's brother Dan Parker, "Flat Nose" Currie and Harry Bass. From 1889 through the turn of the century the Wild Bunch allegedly stole the modern-day equivalent of about $2.5 million, before each of its members was caught or killed.

Their main Wild Bunch hideouts were Hole-Inthe-Wall, a nearly inaccessible grassy canyon and rocky retreat located in north-central Wyoming; Brown's Hole (now Brown's Park), a hidden valley of the Green River, near the junction of the borders of Wyoming, Colorado and Utah; Robbers' Roost, a region of nearly impassable rugged canyons in east-central Utah, and the Wilson W. S. Ranch, near Alma, New Mexico. These hideouts had many advantages. They offered a clear view of all approaches, they were hard to find and get into and if it became necessary, they were easy to defend. Pretty much any outlaw on the run was welcome in these hideouts. Soldiers, Pinkerton detectives, and lawmen eventually captured or killed most of the Wild Bunch in the late 1890s and early 20th century. By 1903, the Wild Bunch had split up. A few, including Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid, renewed their careers in South America.

In a classic 1969 movie titled "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid", Paul Newman as Butch Cassidy and Robert Redford as the Sundance Kid depicted the famous friendship between these two Wild Bunch outlaws.

Concerning The Wild Bunch and Single Action Shooting Society. Since its inception, SASS has been owned and run by a board of directors known as the "Wild Bunch". All rules for Cowboy Action Shooting were created by the Wild Bunch. Inspired by the 1969 Western film, "The Wild Bunch", directed by Sam Peckinpah, SASS has sanctioned Wild Bunch Action Shooting.

If you haven't tried this type of shooting as yet, you should check it out. The Cowboy Action Wild Bunch Match is one of the hottest matches going. The next DSC Cowboys Wild Bunch Match is on Sunday, May 23. Check the cowboy calendar for future 2021 Wild Bunch Match dates.
