

Junior Archery

Four of DSC's young archers competed in the state national JOAD championship Friday, Jan. 20. Dominic Monterosso, Natalie Monterosso, and Dakota Gentry captured gold medals in their respective archery class and division. Izzy Monterosso garnered silver in her class and division.

Friday, shooters focused on what they needed to perform their best. The archers were allowed three practice ends to help them get into a tournament mind set. They lasered in on the shooting process and started hitting high score right away.

During the last round of the first day's shooting, the archers figured out what they wanted to do after the tournament, eat pizza and swim at the hotel pool. The last end went very well with the final score giving our youngsters archers three golds and one silver medal,

The state indoor archery tournament, for all ages and bow classifications, was held Saturday and Sunday. Saturday morning, the team gathered, took photos, stretched out and talked to the other archers before the competition started. Once it began, the young archers were more nervous than on Friday. The adults were focusing more on the kids' than their own shooting. They helped the juniors get into their comfort zone and settle down. After a couple of scoring ends, everyone calmed down, began earning high scores again and having fun with the other archers.

Archers began feeling the wear of shooting two days straight on Sunday. But the team worked together and

Steven Bethell DSC's Newest Distinguished Rifle Expert

Steven Bethell, 13-year-old Grosse Pointe Farms resident, attends Brownell Middle School as an 8th grade student. He is the newest Detroit Sportsmen's Congress Distinguished Rifle Expert. Steven began shooting at 10 years old. When his neighbor, Tom Sullivan, a DSC Junior Rifle coach, invited Steven to come and check out our junior rifle program. He went there one evening and was hooked ever since.

He has participated in DSC shooting classes and training for the last three years. When not working on his riflery skills, Steven has been playing baseball competitively since he was 5 years old. Steven's little league all star team even competed in the State Championship. He is currently on a travel team as the team's starting catcher and recently took up tennis.

Steven has an ORV certification and likes to ride his ATV up north. He has earned his boater's safety certification and is looking forward to driving boats. Steven also enjoys being outdoors, hanging with his friends, running and fixing RC cars, working with his father, bowling and being creative.

He lives with his parents, Charlie and Anne, his 12-year-old brother Gavin, his three rescued cats and his large French mastiff Lucy. He is thankful for the opportunity to practice and compete for the Detroit Sportsmen's Congress.

Blackpowder

In the January issue, I had noted (some people said "whined") that I could no longer get the Hoppes "Black Powder Bore Cleaner and Patch Lubricant" Paul Behe was kind enough to give me some from his secret stash. It should be enough for several years of shooting. I thank Paul here for the Hoppes and for reading the article!

I couldn't think of a great topic to write about this month so I thought I would describe how I clean my muzzleloaders. I offer this description not as a model that people should follow but simply for informational purposes so you can compare it to what you do. First off, when I am shooting, mostly, I shoot in the local BP woods walks. These events are generally 15- to 20-shot events. I generally do not clean between shots. However, since I am using the Hoppes product, I can generally shoot 15-20 shots and not have any difficulties in loading and accuracy is still pretty good at the end. When the shoot is over and I am still on the range, I like to preclean the bore using the Hoppes product. I alternate wet and dry patches to get the bulk of the crud out. This speeds cleaning at home but more importantly, it vastly cuts down on the sulfur smells that the wife finds objectionable. When I get home, I boil water in a kettle and pour it into an old coffee can. I add a couple of squirts of Dawn dishwashing liquid. I remove the lock and clean it separately using CLP or REM OIL - I use a brush to remove the carbon deposits from the hammer and such. Cleaning the bore is hydraulic as the cleaning solution is sucked up and down the bore. I may use a barrel scrapper to check for carbon deposits at the barrel bottom but mostly it is unnecessary. I also run a patch-covered brush down for a pass or two to get a little deeper cleaning. When the patches come out clean, I use dry patches on the bore and then use isopropyl alcohol to help dry the bore. The hot water had already warmed the bore and with the IPA there is little chance for flash rusting. I complete the process with a CLP or REM OIL soaked patch. I use the IPA on pipe cleaners to clean to drum and the coat lightly with the CLP. The nipple is cleaned by soaking it the aforementioned dawn liquid and a subsequent pipe cleaner application. This is what works for me. Let me know if you have any special thoughts on cleaning. One final note, this process takes me about the same amount of time as it does to clean a modern rifle. The cleaning materials are common cheap and generally safer on the user and there is no scrubbing needed to get the copper deposits out as with a modern gun.

This month's BP Woods walk is Sunday, March 12. Dust off your muzzleloader and come on out and give it a try.

Mr. Savo advised that the Refuse to be a Victim is not a gun class. The ATF has ruled arm brace fitted pistols must be registered as a short barrel rifle. Any new ones can only be sold by a Class 3 dealer. The club does not have a Class 3 license. He mentioned that we now supply an AR rifle class. MCGRO asked if we could put such a class together for them. It has now been approved. There are 20 million of this type of rifle in the country. The club paid our taxes for the Dequindre property for $9910 and $5613 for the campground. Other expenses such as insurance continue to be paid on time. There is a new E system in place. Rifle can be converted so as to not need a license.

New Business None

The member drawing was held with number 3299 being drawn. Member, Deborah Chinoski was not present and the jack pot will be increased for the next meeting to $150. 50-50 drawing was won by Jerry LeRoy. A motion to adjourn was proposed and passed the meeting adjourned at 9:20 p.m. Eleven people joined in by the zoom meeting.

Pistol

Way back in 1962, my Aunt Joan took me to see a movie at our local theater. The name of the movie was "Dr. No", starring Scottish actor Sean Connery. The film completely captured my attention and I immediately became a James Bond fan. British novelist Ian Fleming created the fictional secret agent working for MI6 (Military Intelligence, section six) under the codename 007. Fleming had written 12 novels and two short story collections featuring Bond before he passed away in 1964. There have been 27 James Bond productions, making it the longest continually running film series of all time. Fast cars (Aston Martin DB5), charismatic wit, top of the line wrist watches (Rolex, Breitling, Omega), impeccably tailored clothing, super cool gadgets (the trusty attache case, the explosive pen), awesome villains (Oddjob, Ernst Stavro Blofeld, Jaws), the theme songs (three have won the Academy Award for Best Original Song) and martinis, shaken, not stirred, are all a part of Bond's world. But, what about his signature weapon? What kind of pistol does agent 007 pack? From the very beginning of his cinematic tenure, Bond has been armed with his iconic Walther PPK. Developed by the German arms manufacturer Carl Walther GmbH Sportwaffen, the PPK (Polizei Pistole Kriminal) came to market in the early 1930s. The PPK is a blowback-operated semi-automatic pistol. It features an exposed hammer, a traditional double-action trigger mechanism, a single-column magazine and a fixed barrel that also acts as the guide rod for the recoil spring. It was among the world's first successful double action, semi-automatic pistols. The compact PPK went on to become very popular post World War II. It was used in covert roles in many countries including the United States CIA and FBI, British Intelligence Agencies MI5 and MI6 and France's SDECE. Bond's PPK is chambered for .32 ACP rounds, a popular bullet available all over the world, which is useful for an agent like 007. The weapon is smaller than many handguns, sparing Bond's tuxedos from those unattractive creases.

A Final Thought... Actor Jack Lord, who played Felix Leiter in "Dr. No", was presented with a gold-plated PPK with ivory handgrips, given to him by his friend Elvis Presley. Presley himself owned a silver-finish PPK, Inscribed "TCB" (taking care of business).

Junior Shotgun Athlete ~ Keegan Wettstein

The Detroit Sportsmen's Congress Junior Shotgun Program presents Keegan Wettstein as our "In the Spotlight" shooter. Keegan is one of our newest athletes this year. He is a 16-year-old eleventh grader at Grosse Pointe North.

Reading is important for Keegan with Adventures of Huckleberry Finn being his favorite book. As the overarching theme of this novel, conflict between freedom and an orderly civilization, Keegan has researched models of how to solve problems by modeling the United Nations. Keegan's favorite quote from the novel Just Mercy is "Every man is better than his worst moment". This novel is a story of justice and redemption. It explains why the United States judicial system is so broken. No wonder Keegan favorite subject in school is Micro Economics.

Keegan enjoys swimming and helping kids with special needs. It takes a certain individual to work with special needs kids. There are many challenges when working with these individuals as every student is unique. Keegan has the innate ability to help students find and develop their strengths and to understand and accept them for who they are.

He is very involved with his school helping new students by showing them the ropes and spending time with them. He is very proud of his accomplishment in getting into the National Honors Society this year. Keegan tutors students for the National Honors Society. He feels he is good at teaching kids, especially his little brother. Keegan definitely sets a good example for younger kids by listening and trying to do his best at everything.

While in school, a classmate said Keegan was on fire when he answered all of his history teacher's questions. Keegan definitely works with groups and has demonstrated patience in dealing with different situations. He realizes that the most difficult part is that we don't all have the same ideas....we need to compromise. If he were to run for class president, his campaign slogan would be 'I am the catalyst for change'.

Keegan's family is very supportive of him at school. They help him stay on tasks and support his decisions. He has had some memorable trips with his family in the Smoky Mountains and Mackinac Island. While in the Smoky Mountains, he had a great time in playing cornhole and relaxing on the top of the mountains. Keegan enjoyed riding bikes with his cousins on Mackinac Island.

Additionally he is involved with the Boy Scouts. Scouting is about building character and learning life skills. One of his best positions in scouting was being elected as patrol leader. What does it take to be a patrol leader? Keegan demonstrated and drew on his strengths, being open to new ideas and put his heart in making the troop the best it can be. The hardest thing Keegan has ever done was to build a "walking bridge" at Boy Scout camp.

Keegan sees himself going to the University of Michigan studying Engineering, Physics or Economics in a few years. With a well-rounded education, developed leadership skills and meeting performance standards, Keegan will definitely succeed.

The DSC Junior Shotgun Program has partnered with the Scholastic Shooting Sports Foundation which manages clay target and action shooting youth development programs and the Scholastic Clay Target Program which provides student athletes, aged elementary through college, with a supportive environment where shooting sports serve as a catalyst for teaching life lessons and skills that emphasize positive character traits and citizenship values.

The DSC Junior Shotgun Program embraces those values and promotes young athletes with training and practice with skeet, trap and sporting clays. While training with DSC's Junior Shotgun Program, athletes may compete at various matches, including Southeast, State and National Conference Championships.

Keegan has developed friendships and possible lasting bonds with coaches and mentors who genuinely care about their athlete's accomplishments and successes. It is apparent that Keegan's mission is to reach his highest potential in becoming the best shooting athlete he can be. We therefore welcome Keegan Wettstein into our DSC Junior Shotgun Program.

Cowboy

The Cowboy Action Committee held it's annual pancake breakfast and cowboy awards presentation Jan. 14 in the cowboy range building. Jim Estes cooked his famous pancakes, and Linda Lupi, the wife of Cowboy Chairman Joe Lupi, added meat and vegetarian style egg strata dishes. No one left hungry.

After the monthly committee business meeting it was time for the anxiously awaited 2022 Cowboy Action awards, presented by Joe Lupi.

The first award was the coveted Volunteer-of-the-Year. Three members were nominated, Bob Biestek for his huge number of hours as a law enforcement cowboy range officer, Dan Hill for his match design and direction of the Wild Bunch and 3-gun matches and Dennis Vertrees for single-handedly cutting the cowboy range grass every week of the year. The winner was Bob Biestek, who was not in attendance to pick up his engraved beer mug award. His name plate was added to the permanent Volunteer trophy in the Cowboy range building.

The shooting awards were next. These are based on a long-established point system that ranks place-finishes accumulated in each match type throughout the year.

First, were the Top Wild Bunch awards. The winners were: 1st place – Joe Lupi, "J.J. Longley"; 2nd place – Tom Doudna, "Camptown"; and 3rd place – Chris von Wormer, "John Weston".

Second, were the Top Cowboy awards. The winners are: 1st place – Kerry Hammer, "Shelby Kid"; 2nd place – Joe Lupi, "J.J. Longley"; and 3rd place – Rick Nakula, "Rifle Rick". Kerry Hammer and Rick Nakula have been nipping at Joe Lupi's heels for several years now, but this is the first time since most of us can remember that Joe got topped.

The 1st place winners' name plates were added to the permanent Top Wild Bunch and Top Cowboy plaques in the Cowboy range building.

Then the committee gave a long-overdue special recognition to Joe Lupi for his nearly 15 years of excellent service as chairman. During this time Joe has directed and guided the committee offering his own inspiring example as the model to follow. His leadership and dedication has been constant, yet seemingly tireless, while amounting to certainly countless thousands of hours. There is a lot to do to keep the range in shape, and Joe is the first to volunteer, and then asks for help. He is known state-wide and nationally for his top cowboy shooting skills, yet always finds time to instruct even the beginning shooters. Through all of this, Joe and never once sought any kind of credit. The committee therefore took this opportunity to honor Joe with his own recognition plaque. As Jerry Romito presented Joe with his plaque, Joe said "For the first time I'm speechless." And we could all attest to that.

Jerry Romito

3rd Chris von Wormer, 2nd Tom Doudna & 1st Joe Lupi

3rd Rick Nakula, 1st Kerry Hammer & 2nd Joe Lupi

Joe Lupi receives his award from Jerry Romito

Rifle

The rifle committee met Feb. 3. The biggest discussion item was planning for the rifle range backstop improvements. As part of that project, the committee will be building new target bases. Rifle had submitted plans for this and is asking for Board approval to purchase the materials. The planning committee reviewed the request and made a list of suggestions. These suggestions were discussed at the meeting and the committee will resubmit the request incorporating most of these suggestions. We also reviewed and approved the Rifle Leagues Signup form for 2023. There were no significant changes from last year and the league fees remain the same.

Sunday Jan. 29, DSC Rifle hosted the annual Ground Hog shoot in honor of Ground Hog Day. The simulated ground hogs were 2-liter pop bottles hanging from strings at the 200-yard line. Six bottles are required for each participant. The weather was cold and gray. The turnout this year was down considerably. Last year we had 23 and this year only 14. The top shooters were John Sullivan for least number of shots (9) and Gary Dawson for least time (4:28).

The next rifle special event is the Fred Wallwork Memorial Potato Shoot, Sunday March 12 at 10 a.m. In this event, we shoot at 6 potatoes hanging at 50 yards using 22 rifles. Firing is from the standing position except juniors may shoot off the benches. It is suggested that hollow point ammo be used as sometimes the hits with standard velocity solid points does not show much effect. See the flyer in this issue of the P&K or see it on the coming events page at Coming Events | Detroit Sportsmen's Congress \(dscweb.org\).

ushed through shooter fatigue. At the end of Sunday's 9 a.m. tournament, most of the team headed home. When the tally was done, Dominic Monterosso and Dakota Gentry earned gold medals. Brady Sullivan, Izzy Monterosso and Natalie Monterosso won silver medals. And Shannan Lancaster received a bronze medal.

Saturday, Jan. 28, the junior archery team attended the National Field Archery Association shoot. This shoot is a one-day, one-time shoot. The event was near home and great for first time archers. Young archers learn how tournaments work. Thirteen archers attended this event. Many of them were surprised at the number of shooters competing. It was great to see family members come out and watch their archers perform at their first tournament. The archers were prepared for the NFAA style of shooting, where you're scored with a X that is also a 10 and half way through the shoot, the archers shooting the top target switch with those shooting the bottom target.

When the tournament ended, the team headed home. At the time of this writing, Maggie Kutschman took bronze in her archery class. Vivian Cauley earned silver in her class. Sam Kutschman garnered gold in his class. Dean Burnett won bronze in his class while Shannan Lancaster took silver in his class. Rebecca Novak captured gold in her class. Travis Noteboom secured gold in his class and Cole McCormack brought home silver in his. Having eight of the 13 junior archers earn medals was great. It was even better to see the archers having fun and enjoying the sport of archery.

If anyone is interested in joining us during these shoots, or would like to try out archery, there is open shooting Fridays from 6 to 8 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. We hope to see more people on the archery range with your kids. It's a great sport the whole family can enjoy.

Cole McCormack and Rebecca Novak at full draw.

Archery

The Archery Committee has the indoor spot league finishing this month. Big thank you to Byron Hamm for running the league again. Byron is doing a great job. There are approximately 50% more shooters in the league this year over last year. With this amount of year over year improvements, we will need a bigger range soon. Congratulations to the Kansas City Chiefs for their Superbowl victory over the Philadelphia Eagles. And thank you to Byron (Chief's fan) and his superstitions for not watching the second half of the game. That is certainly why the Chiefs were victorious

Lastly, if the weather permits, we will begin Monday work bees March 20 to prepare the outdoor archery ranges for the spring 3D league and weekend 3D open shooting.
